Our smartphones today come in different shapes and sizes (between three inches to six inches), which makes it ideal for usage, like watching videos, playing games and so on. The screen quality of most smartphones is fantastic, offering a fantastic experience when streaming videos/clips from sites like YouTube, Netflix, and sharing files on larger screens. If you're familiar with Chromecast, then you know how easy it is to mirror your smartphone to the TV. Besides Chromecast and other screen-casting tools, you can also mirror your Android device to your PS4 console. Are you interested in knowing how? Read this post to discover two feasible solutions to mirror Android to PS4. Only a few mirroring apps support connecting android to a PS4 console, and Plex is one of the applications you can trust for this job. Within seconds, you can cast your Android device to a PlayStation 4. You can use it to stream pictures, videos, and music. One exciting feature of this tool is that it arranges your files automatically, saving you the stress of looking for any file you would like to play. You can use this application free of charge, or you can decide to go for Plex Pass, which you can use to view and record Live podcasts or TV. Follow the steps below to know how to use Plex. User Guide Visit Plex official site to create a free Plex account. Click on Sign Up. You will have to create a username and password when signing up, make sure you take note of your login details as you will need it when it's time to connect your phone to PS4. Now, search for Plex on your PS4. To do so, head to PlayStation Store, go to the "Apps" section, then click on "Popular," and look for Plex. Install the app on your console and then go to your PS4 home screen. Click on "TV & Video" and select Plex. Click on "Sign in" and visit the link that appears on your device screen through a browser. Log in to your Plex account and input the code displayed on your television. Click on "Link," an App-linked message will appear indicating a successful setup. If you get any error message on your device screen, ignore the message and hit "Go Home" instead of "retry." The next step to take is to install the Plex app on your smartphone. Open the application and click "Stay in Trial Mode." There are some steps to take before you can cast your Android device to PS4 console. Click on "Grant Permission" then select the menu icon. Head to "Settings," click on "System," and then check "Advertise server," "Show camera roll media," and "Network discovery." Lastly, go to your PS4 home screen, where you get to see your smartphone top right of your television alongside the local pictures & videos. To stream your phone, select desire folder and hit play. Another free app available on PlayStore, which supports connecting your smartphone to a different server, is iMediaShare. With this app, users can play music, videos, and pictures to the audio system or TV screen at ease. You can also use iMediaShare to stream your android device to PS4. This tool supports android devices operating on version 2.2 and later versions. A unique feature of this app is that it lists available methods automatically. Thus, all you need to do is select from the available options, and you will be able to access your media files from the receiving device, provided both devices are linked to the same network. For mirroring android to PS4 console through iMediaShare, follow the steps below. User Guide On your device, install iMediaShare. Open the app and select from the main interface what you would like to stream. For instance, choose "Gallery Photos" or "Gallery Videos." To access all video files on your smartphone, scroll down and select "All Videos." Choose the files you wish to mirror to your PS4 and click "Choose a screen". Now, select your PS4 from the list of devices available to initiate the streaming. Have at the back of your mind that if your android device and your PS4 are not connected to the same wireless network, finding your device will not be possible once detection mode is active. I've been doing some searching and no one has an answer either way. All I wanna do is either live stream my whole phone screen or cast specific app content from phone to the PS4. Anybody have an idea? It's driving me nuts... Something went wrong. Wait a moment and try again. Are you wondering, Can You Screen Mirror Android to PS4? Well, there are several methods you can try. Screen mirroring is an application that lets you cast the screen of your Android phone to a PlayStation 4 TV or audio system. This application is free and supports streaming videos, music, and photos. Once installed, it will automatically detect your devices and organize their media files for you. Once connected to the same Wi-Fi network, you can start enjoying your entertainment on the go. The first way to screen mirror your Android phone to PS4 is to connect your smartphone to the same network as the PlayStation 4. You can do this by choosing Mobile App Connection Settings. Then, select PS4(tm) system and tap "Connect" to begin screen mirroring. This method is easy to follow and requires no special technical knowledge or skills. Once connected, you can enjoy your Android screen on your PS4 without any issues. Can You Mirror to PS4 Without WiFi? If you are wondering if it is possible to screen mirror your PS4 from your Android device, the answer is a resounding yes! Screen mirroring is possible with a free application called iMediaShare, which connects your mobile device to the server that allows you to play media files on your TV or audio system. The application works on Android devices with a 2.2 or higher operating system. Once installed, you will need to connect your device to the same Wi-Fi network. If you have a PC, Mac, or other device that supports screen mirroring, you can use one of the apps available on the App Store. These apps work on a variety of platforms, and require you to connect them via Bluetooth or Wi-Fi Direct. If you have a PS4, you can also use a Lightning to HDMI adapter to connect the two devices via Bluetooth. After pairing, simply tap the Bluetooth or Wi-Fi Direct switch on the PS4 and begin screen mirroring. Can You Screencast Android to PS4? Before you can screencast your Android, you need to download iMediaShare. This app will allow you to easily cast the content from your Android to PS4. Select the files that you want to screencast from the main interface, your photo gallery, or videos. Once you have selected the file you wish to screencast, you'll need to connect your Android to the PS4's network. Once this is complete, you'll have your PS4 ready to receive the screencast. READ ALSO: How Do I Make a Group Call on Android? You can also use your PS4's mobile app connection to mirror your smartphone. Then, go to the PS4's Mobile App Connection settings and click on Mirror Phone. Once you've done that, you'll see a PS4 Second Screen. You will need to control this screencast from the PS4 system, however. Alternatively, you can use Plex to screencast iPhone and Android to PS4. Can You Screen Mirror to PS4? It's possible to screen mirror your Android device onto your PlayStation 4 with the help of a third-party app. This works with TVs that support Miracast and AirPlay. Note that you'll need to connect your PS4 to your home network with an ethernet cable. You can also download an app to mirror your Android device. One example of a third-party app is R-Play. Plex is a screen-mirroring application that allows you to connect your Android device to a PlayStation 4. You can use it to cast your Android content to your PS4 and watch videos. You can also play games from your PS5 on your PS4 using PlayStation Share Play. Just make sure to have PS Plus so that your Android device will be able to connect with PS4! You can then play your favorite PlayStation games with your PS4! Screen-mirroring is an easy way to stream content to your PS4 console. Screen-mirroring allows you to turn your living room into a gaming arena without a complicated setup. Simply download the application and install it on your Android device. The software will then automatically detect available devices and let you choose the one that's most suitable for your needs. You'll need to connect your PS4 to the same Wi-Fi network as your Android device. How Do I Connect My PS4 Without WiFi? The first step in resolving this issue is to identify the problem and fix it. You may have problems connecting to Wi-Fi due to a poor configuration of your Wi-Fi network, or because your DNS and proxy settings are incorrect. The best thing to do is troubleshoot the connection problems before you contact your ISP. Check that the Wi-Fi channel and password are correct, and that your computer is configured correctly for Internet access. If the Wi-Fi is public, you may need to log in with your browser. READ ALSO: How Do I Fix the Upside Down Camera on My Android? Another problem that can affect your internet connection is your PlayStation 4's distance from the router. The PS4 console may experience intermittent signal loss if it's located a few feet from the router. Try moving your PS4 closer to the router or rebooting your modem/router. This may resolve the problem. If it doesn't, you can try reconnecting the cable or changing the IP address settings. How Do I Connect My Phone to My PS4 Via USB? When you're playing a game, connecting your phone to your PS4 via USB is a great way to enjoy a seamless connection. This way, you can control the PlayStation from your smartphone, and use the phone as a second screen. Likewise, you can use USB drives to play media files and backup your PS4 data. Unfortunately, you can't connect your Android device directly to your PS4 via USB. To connect to your PS4 via USB, you must first transfer the content to a storage device. The PlayStation app can be used to connect your smartphone to your PlayStation 4. To pair your phone with your PS4 via Bluetooth, simply press the "P" button on the D-pad. The PS4 will begin scanning nearby Bluetooth devices. Once you've paired your phone, you'll be able to use it as a controller in most PlayStation games. You can also use the virtual buttons on your phone to control the game. How Do You Cast Videos on PS4? If you want to watch your favorite videos on PS4, you can easily cast the videos from your phone to your television. First of all, you need to connect your PS4 to the same Wi-Fi network as your android device. Then, select the device from the screen list and choose the one you want to cast to. Once you have done that, simply tap on the play button to watch your videos. In addition to that, you can also adjust the frame rate and resolution of the content you want to cast. Another option is to use the Google Chromecast with the PS4. It will mirror the contents on your phone. Another option is to use DLNA, which allows streaming from other devices, such as laptops and desktop computers. There are also several methods to cast videos from iPhone to PS4 and vice versa. For both options, you need an HDMI cable and AirPlay. Finally, you need to enable System Link on your PS4 before casting the content. READ ALSO: How to Download Songs on Android?
